MISS AVONIA JONES .- To-night concludes Orleans. the engagement of this young lady at the Gaiety. In the brief notices we have given from day to day, of her performances, we have freight aboard last evening, consequently she spoken in terms of the highest commendation. has deferred her departure for New Orleans At the close we desire to place upon record fill to-day at 12 o'clock. Her veteran comsome more general observations cencerning mander. Capt. Baker, assured us last evening her merits. As a youthful aspirant for pub- that his beautiful and fast steamer would leave lic favor it is due to her that she should know to-day without fail. She had a large number precisely what degree of success may attend her efforts. On the score of mere personal endowment she lacks nothing for the higher walks of the drama. Her fine symmetrical form, fulness of physical development, natural dignity and grace of movement, together with a face full of beauty, soft and mobile f-atures, a strong and pleasing voice, a suit | On arriving at Clarksville we learn her offiof hair of ravea black, and eyes of extraordi- cers contemplate- at the suggestion of some nary brilliance and power of expression are of the early friends of Capt. Baker, now livquite sufficient. If she lacks in aught, it is in ing in that city-giving a grand ball on the I nich et, genius. Our own implession is Min-ne-ha-ha. that she is gifted with these, if not in the very highest degre, to such a degree as that with due industry, not only failure is out of the question, but unusual success is inevitable.

Her style of acting is unaffectedly simple and ordess, her stage movements grac faland commanding, and wholly natural, and her general bearing that of a proud, though unost atatious, and oftentimes unconscious superiority. Sie has the rare quality of fix ing and retaining the attention of her auditors, without apparent effort on her part, and without fatigue to them. With such a combination of qualities, natural, inherent, i.id :pendent of cultivation, the task before her is comparatively easy. In her delineations, se far as we have seen.

she is original. Her cone ption and rendition of character po-sess the striking exclusiveness of being all her swu. Sie lavests every thing she touches with new power and fresh nos. In the portrayal of emotion and pasion, the expression of sympathy and tenderness we have seld on seen her equal. Mr. (Mowate) Receipe an excellent judge, in a Litter, published more than a year ago, says: .. Her powers of personation are of a high order, but they do not extend to the startling portrayal of the sterner, darker passionspassions which create awe akin to horror Here is the especial power to sound the nobler chords of the heart to depict pure and holy ed degree; but we think Mrs. Rerente underrated both her versatility and the strength of d ring the most absorbing tragedy, in its sternest a-pects, we have not the slightest tem of teaching and writing. Terms moderate, doubt. We think the rele of deep posion. whether tragic or resulting from the frenks of fortune, or the malevolence of the world, ber better sphere, and that she would excel in it more than in any other.

For light comedy she has not sufficient vivacity; she will pass respectably, doubtless in that; but she is gifted with too much energy of soul, depth of feeling, vigor of character and breadth of mind to be either flippant or triffing. She will blaz , but will not spukle; she will shed a constant stream of transcead at light, but she will neither flash nor scintillate. She is steady, constant, un- 1 fisful by nature, and will find great difficulty i appearing otherwise. For instance, as gent el and fascinating as the character is, we should dislike to see her und rtake to tease the life out of the unsephi-ticated bumpkin, Wildrake as Constance in the "Love Cha e." We would almost as soon see Miss Cushwan try to play "B tsey Baker," Miss Jones should by all means keep in the higher walks of the drama. There she will incontestibly make her most enduring fame. If h rearly mental training was not deep, and broad, and full enough to sustain her in it, she has ample time and ability to make up the d fleichey. Why may she not study history and mathematics now as w. Il as at fifteen? And it Allison, or Hum , or Gibbon, or Robertson are too dull, why then, there are the "merrie chronicles" of Sir John Frois-art.

In conclusion we renture to suggest a de-Miss Jones's elecution. Her voice is naturally strong, volui le and musical, and is su ceptible of the highest cultivation; but it has been to some extent neglected if we judge BY rightly. Her reading is almost always ac curate, but she has not that entire command of her voice which is so necessary to the finished actress, and which gives to a commonplace sentiment the in flable charm of cloquence We are sure she may b come a perfict el cationist and we commend her atten-

The Secretary of War, in rap'y to an inquiry of the House Committee on Military Affairs, has expressed a very decided opinion that the proposed military occupation of Sonora and Chihuahua, so far from adding to the existing necessity for an increase of the Army, would have the opposite effect. A line of posts stretched across from Texas to Guaymas would be much shorter than the pre-ent curved line of posts held by our troops, and being shorter the line could be occupied by a smaller force than is now required, besides being more effective than the present arrangement,-A great saving, too, would be made in the means of subsistence. and the curtailment of the expenses of transportation, 13 892 3 V9VLB

My manufacture is at Scheldam, Helland. After several months reflection what title to give it, I in Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps."

> heidam is the name of the place in Helland where the Gin is manufactured; "aromatic" derives its name from the Italian Juniper berry with which it is flavored; and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—cogie, dram—Waife's Scheidam aromatic drink. No seener had my Schnapps been introduced the American public, and received with approbathan the liquor mixers of New York, Bost nd Philadelphia started in pursuit with their mixe nd poisonous stuff, under various names. In seve instances my labels have been so perfectly imit. with only the addition of a few letters, to plead a chnical avoidance of the law, and so carefully pr pared as to impose on careless purchasers. I unde stand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of New Orleans on account of the cheap as of the stuff. Two Dollars per dozen for the parts, and one Dollar and Ten Cents a dozen for the ints, being the wholesale price in New York, It is nothing but American Whisky flavored with the Oil of Juniper, and reduced thirty per cent below proof.
